

Artist/Educator in Residence Overview

Background

The Madison Metropolitan Sewerage District (District) is a leader in water stewardship, returning water safely to the environment and recovering resources like nutrients to help crops grow and methane to generate power. The District embraces a vision of enriching life through clean water and resource recovery and our mission of protecting public health and the environment and has done so for over 90 years by operating the Nine Springs Wastewater Treatment Plant.

Shop One is a physical building at the plant with a rich history of adaptation, changing as the District's needs have evolved. The call for this building's next evolution is to be repurposed into a flexible, community-oriented space to help the District tell our story, remember history, connect with the community, and look to the future. In addition to being a physical space, it is also an opportunity to open the wastewater treatment plant beyond its fence and normal business hours; to teach through interactions, to provide hands-on opportunities and experiences; engage in conversations that challenge social norms and conventional thinking as well as collaborate and test new approaches to convey the One Water message.

Residency description

Madison Metropolitan Sewerage District seeks to employ an artist/educator to design and execute a one-year residency. The purpose of this residency is to...

- Help connect community members to and in conversations about water and water stewardship
- Build community understanding of the value and essential role water plays for us all
- Offer an opportunity for the artist/educator to advance their own creative practice

During the one-year residency at Shop One, the artist/educator will collaborate with District subject matter experts to explore local, regional, and national water challenges and stewardship priorities. In addition, based on their own practice, the artist/educator may lead and implement some or all of the following activities:

- Outreach to community members living across the Madison metropolitan area, helping them understand their relationship with water and welcoming them to be a part of future Shop One events and activities.
- Collaborate with District staff to imagine creative ways to express its mission to “protect public health and the environment” and its vision to “enrich life through clean water and resource recovery.”
- Generate creative works, events, and/or opportunities that connect people to the District and strengthen their relationship to water.
- Identify ways to sustain relationships between the District and community members engaged both within and outside Shop One.

Additionally, the artist/educator will provide the district with a mid- and post-residency reflection and summary of their activities with feedback on how to improve the residency for the future. Also, the artist/educator will make a presentation to District staff about their activities.

Eligibility

Artist/Educators...

- Of any practice or discipline who live, work, or have connection to the Madison metropolitan area
- Emerging-to-established artists with educator experience. “Educator” can mean many things and take on a variety of forms, but preference will be given to those with proven ability to help others learn about and connect with environmental causes.
- Able to commit to a 12-month partnership with the District and be available to meet every other week, preferably in person, as conditions allow.
- Artists/educators with a wide range of experiences and/or paths should apply. We value diversity of perspective and recognize there are multiple ways of knowing. We encourage artists/educators with a wide range of experiences and/or paths of community engagement work and multi-disciplinary practices to apply. Priority will not necessarily be given to those with long residence histories or traditional artist collaboration projects.

Budget & compensation

The selected artist/educator will work on a part time basis for 12 months and be paid $25,000. This amount is based on an estimated rate of $75 per hour for 333 hours of labor, which translates to roughly six hours of work per week over the course of the residency. The role does not include housing, transportation to and from Shop One, or childcare. In addition to artist/educatory pay, they will also have access to an expense budget of up to $10,000.

Process

1. Interested educator/artists apply to the initial application (request for qualifications – see details on page 4) by Nov. 11.
2. Initial applications reviewed by a selection panel. The panel will choose 3 finalists, who will be invited to develop a full proposal (see details on page 7).
3. Three finalists will be compensated $750 to develop a full proposal. Full proposals will be due by Dec. 17.
4. One full proposal will be selected to be the Madison Metropolitan Sewerage District’s first-ever Educator/Artist in Residence, starting in early 2022.

A narrative summary describing your vision for the residency, and the themes and objectives you will pursue with your creative practice.

Residency plan

The residency plan should address the following criteria.

Community Engagement Approach:

- Identify what community, or communities, you will seek to engage with, and how.
- Describe how you will ensure community engagement is equitable and that community members retain ownership of their narrative.
- Describe how the community, or communities, will be enriched by the engagement.

District Engagement:

- Provide descriptions for specific activities for the residency.
- Description of how District buildings will be utilized during the residency (if applicable).
- Description of any logistical support from District staff that you feel would be necessary to help ensure the success of the residency (if applicable).

Ongoing Community Impact:

- What relationships will be developed during the residency? How will these be maintained?
- Will the residency produce durable deliverables for the communities engaged?

Residency timeline & process

Map out the project steps and prospective timeline for project activities and deliverables.

Residency expense budget

Description for associated project expenses. Please break it down into line items. There is up to $10,000 for an associated expense budget.

Proposal ownership

It is the District's intention to respect the intellectual property of artists, but please note that Madison Metropolitan Sewerage District is subject to Wisconsin's Open Records laws.

In addition, should an idea that is generated as part of this process be considered for future implementation, the contributing artist will be given the first right of refusal.

Proposal submission assistance

Applicants needing technical assistance uploading or formatting files or have submission-related questions can be in touch over email, or if email proves inadequate to answer questions, may schedule a 30-minute phone or video-conferencing call.

Final proposal scoring

Finalist proposals will be assessed based on the following four criteria:

Artist/Educator's Creative Vision

How well does the plan align with Shop One values?

- Does the plan advance reflection, conservation, and protection of water resources through creative engagement?
- Do activities honor place and connection to local history?
- Does the plan make the invisible visible by illuminating the hidden systems for water stewardship?

Community Engagement Approach

How well does the plan ensure equitable engagement with communities?

- Is the plan clear regarding which communities will be engaged?
- Do plan activities connect to local resources and create community ownership of the narrative?
- Do plan activities effectively communicate the Finalist's ability to competently engage with the identified communities?
- Will the plan strengthen water stewardship through relationship building?

District Engagement Plan

How well does the plan engage the District – its people and place?

- Does the plan incorporate ways to engage District staff?
- Does the plan incorporate the use of the Shop One building?

Ongoing Community Impact

How will the plan create long term relationships and opportunities?

- How will relationships developed over the course of the residency be maintained?
- Is there an opportunity for ongoing engagement with participating communities?
- Does the plan include creations/deliverables that may last beyond the scope of residency?

The winning proposal will be selected by the same panel the initial finalists were chosen by. The panel will receive all final proposals at the same time, and after a period of days, discuss the proposals to select the winning proposal to become Shop One's first Artist/Educator in residence. The selected artist/educator will be notified by December 21 and would likely start sometime mid-January 2022 (depending on proposed project timeline).
